If in doubt guidance should be sought from an appropriate manager.

Staff must not access social networking for personal use through school information systems or using school equipment.

Staff must not accept students as friends - personal communication could be considered inappropriate and unprofessional, and makes staff vulnerable to allegations.

In no circumstances should staff post photographs of students, except where the staff member's own children attend the school. In these circumstances, staff members may post images of their own children and friends at social events; members of staff should take care to ensure the suitability of the images and that they are not posted in relation to the school.

Staff are advised not to be friends with recent students; the potential for staff to be compromised in terms of wall content and open to accusations makes the risk not worth taking.

Staff must not place inappropriate photographs on any social network.

Staff must not post indecent remarks.

If a member of staff receives messages via social networking that they think could be from a student, they must report it to their line manager and contact the internet service or social network so that they can investigate and take the appropriate action.

Staff are advised not to disclose their affiliation with the school on their profile(s), or write about their work.

Staff must not disclose any information that is confidential to the school or disclose personal data or information about any individual which could be in breach of the Data Protection Act. Staff must also not disclose any information about the school that is not yet in the public arena.

Acceptable Use of Social Media in School

Where a school uses social networking for communication purposes, these networks can be accessed via school equipment. School will monitor this closely and only those with administrator rights should communicate in this way. Any misuse or abuse by staff, students or the wider community should be reported to the Headteacher.

Relevant staff may interact, professionally and linked to academic pursuits, with pupils through ClassDojo, St Michael-in-the-Hamlet's chosen online platform within school. This may include comments on 'story' posts or offering feedback/comments on Student Portfolios and not via messages which are restricted to parents/carers only. Relevant staff may also post updates of learning on Twitter but will do so in line with photo permission (given by parents/carers) and will not identify children by specific need or circumstance. Twitter is used as a platform to share good practice, learning and achievements.

Breaches of the Policy

The Governing Body does not discourage staff from using social networking; however staff should be aware that they will take inappropriate use of social networking seriously. Any posts or comments which could be deemed online bullying or harassment will be dealt with in the same way as other instances of bullying or harassment.

The Headteacher may take disciplinary action in the case of allegations of inappropriate use of social networking, depending on the seriousness of the allegations.

There may be instances where the school would be obliged to inform the police of any activity or behaviour where there are concerns about its legality.

From time to time, staff and volunteers at school may be subject to abuse on social networking sites in connection with their role in school. Any such abuses should be reported immediately to the headteacher, who will inform governors
